

To create my diagram, I started by running the following command: "git log 14a38adf53033553da085549be989f02ca9d4ee4..79aed792415b35d1b31ddc26814a211c7bae97fe", and writing the output to a file to manually parse through and create a tree. After a bit more research, I looked into the --graph option, which allowed me to concisely view the tree between the two specified commits: "git log 79aed792415b35d1b31ddc26814a211c7bae97fe^..14a38adf53033553da085549be989f02ca9d4ee4 --graph --decorate --format=full", with a more concise version swapping the --format flag for --oneline.

--decorate --oneline
